Mackerel Notes.

Word from Dingle, Ireland, dated October 12, says that the mackerel fishing was very bad last week. On Saturday 26,000 were landed and 4000 for all the other days in the week. The weather was fine but there was a very bright moon which interfered with the fishing. The curers are paying high prices.

A few fresh mackerel have been shipped to Boston from New Bedford this week.

Receipts of European salt mackerel this week have been 1217 bbls. at Boston, 1258 bbls. at New York, 2243 bbls. at Philadelphia.

Fishing Fleet Movements.

Sch. Ella M. Goodwin was at Liverpool on Wednesday.

Sch. Slade Gorton arrived at Canso on Wednesday.

Schs. Edith Emery and American will fit for Newfoundland salt herring trip.

Sch. Willie Swift, dory handlining, arrived at Provincetown yesterday with 1200 quintals of cured cod.

Provincetown Fishing News.

Sloop Barbara, while dredging for flounders off the Truro shore, hauled up a 400-pound anchor with a shot of chain attached, which evidently had been imbedded in the sand a dozen years or more.

Pickert's Canning Factory has been the busiest place in town for the past ten days, having secured all the tinker mackerel it could handle. Many extra hands have been employed.

Sch. Rose Cabral, Capt. Cabral, has abandoned fresh fishing and hauled into Matheeson's wharf where the vessel will be thoroughly overhauled and recalced.

Sch. Jessie, of Boston, 20 tons net, has been purchased by Capt. Thomas Henderson and will engage in the flounder dredging business.

Sch. Eglantine of Gloucester was at this port Tuesday for a supply of frozen herring.

Some of the best stocks won by local trawling schooners during the season were made the past week. The men of the Philip Manta shared $60 each; the Julia Costa's men took $5 each as their part of the proceeds of the voyage; the I. J. Merritt's crew shared $52, the Governor Russell's crew $36, and the men of the Sea Fox $37 each, fine wages for trips lasting only from five to seven days.

WEEKLY FISH MARKET.

The fish market for this week shows little or no change over last. Salt bankers come slowly and prices remain at a very high notch. A fare of dory handline cod bring exceptional figures. The reports from the fleet are a little more encouraging and many are not looked for before the last of November or first of December. Halibut are in very light receipt and there is practically little shack coming in. The large pollock fleet thus far have brought in only small or fair-sized trips. Prices in all grades, ex-vessel and cured, are well maintained and trade is good.
